RESURRECTION PHENOMENONS!

Easter. Resurrection! I'm sure you have experienced little moments—or big occasions in which you have experienced a genuine resurrection phenomenon! Of course, the prototype, the genuine one is THE miraculous Resurrection of Jesus from the dead, thanks to the power of God. That's the essential One we celebrate this month. Because we're human, we are created in God's image and we will experience resurrection moments throughout our lives. The genetic code of the Cosmos is laced through and through with the Wonder of Resurrection. Rising Again—from the dead, from the ashes. Dormant seeds suddenly, shockingly bloom into flowers. Dark cocoons hatch butterflies! People transform!

RE-birth. RE-newal. RE-vitalization. RE-naissance. RE-vival. YES, we pray!

I'd like to share several 'resurrection moments' in hopes that you will recognize and celebrate some of yours!

Last year, I chanced upon The Abby, a religious store in Scarborough. As I was in this wonderland, my phone rang. I was stunned. The name was that of my former Spiritual Director from Denver. In a prior call, I had been told he had suffered a serious heart attack, so I had been unwilling to contact him. I was startled--might this be his wife telling me he had died? I was thrilled when I heard his healthy voice! He was fine and eagerly asked if I had been called to a church! He was overjoyed when I shared I was in New Hampshire at FCCW. "I knew God would lead you to a church, Tere!" This resurrection of relationship was a marvelous gift.

I told him the story of how I thought I was "ready" to accept a "call" as I was interviewing seriously with a church. I was out on my bicycle riding on the little road along the RV park where I lived, right on Lake Michigan. I was on the phone and when I looked up--there was a deer on the road! In fear, I hit the brakes hard and fell off the bike, skidding on my knees and chin. Ouch! Some blood and bruising, but not serious.

Later, I reflected on the accident and interpreted it like a dream. I was going along my way, and all of a sudden, Spirit appeared (deer are my symbol for Spirit.) I hit the brakes hard, even though this creature was plenty far ahead of me. Here was Spirit presenting me with a church, but I was fearful and hit the brakes. I was telling myself I was ready to say "yes", but I was putting them off--hitting the brakes as they got more serious with me. So, I found someone to work with me so I could clear my inner path forward. I experienced a resurrection. God readied me for you.

After I hung up with Bob, I discovered wonderful religious tokens like dollar coins in the store. I chose one that depicts the Angel Michael. I enjoy carrying it in in my pocket and reading the prayer. "O Michael, give us your strength to defeat our fears and to rise up to any challenge".

Hmm, a resurrection prayer. Thank You, God, for little accidents through which you lead us to powerful resurrections. Amen.

Calling and Discernment Ministry

1 Corinthians 12:7 A spiritual gift is given to each of us so we can help each other.

First Congregational Church Wakefield always welcomes your ideas, your donations, your help. Nothing is too little and everything is ALWAYS appreciated. There is always a place here for you to share your spiritual gifts no matter from where you come, whatever you believe, whoever you love, whatever your lifestyle. The Calling and Discernment Ministry can help match your ideals, ideas, and energy... YOU... with a place in our church where you may be filled with joy and accomplishment knowing you are serving so many.

Safe Church Team Members

This team would greatly appreciate the help of additional people. A wonderful ongoing project to upgrade access points to the church with better lighting, locks and video cameras, is being coordinated by the very skillful Tracey Kolb. Other ways Safe Church members can be involved: assuring children and the elderly are kept safe while in our care; providing proper use of AED equipment and knowledge of CPR; attending free training seminars on safe church offered by the NH Department of Safety. If you can share your time and knowledge for these projects, we need you!

Faith Formation Ministry Coordinator(s) and assistant volunteers

This ministry currently has dedicated leaders for both the Adult and Youth Faith Formation groups. FCCW needs an additional person(s) to serve as Coordinator(s), of the Faith Formation Ministry. One may not be involved directly with the classes or related events but would be responsible for calling the FF leaders together occasionally for check-in, brainstorming program development with others, or attending occasional FCCW Leadership Council meetings. We are very hopeful that FCCW will once again be nurturing children and families by extending opportunities for a revitalized church school. Perhaps you have the desire or experience and are called to be involved with the children as a volunteer assistant. Children of all ages are eager to be with each other and learn and use new skills to help others. These relationships will be with them forever. How wonderful when teens, young adults, and young families all work together in love. Come offer your talents and join the fun.

Outreach Ministry Coordinator(s) and volunteers

FCCW is very thankful we are able to provide services to our own members and to the surrounding area. Our volunteers offer rides to community members through the Shepherds Program; there are Grief and Caregiver support groups, and our members support the Food Pantry by donating monthly non-perishable foods. We invite the community to join us for the Harvest Fair, the popular 'Yard Sale', bake sales and Christmas Bazaar. These volunteers are all part of the Outreach Ministry! We are in need of Coordinators as team managers for this fun, enthusiastic and dedicated group of volunteers. This may seem daunting, but this Ministry is often assisted by other FCCW Ministries to accomplish these tasks. Our dedicated volunteers work side by side, supporting and working with each other as a team. Come join us!!

For more information or help with your personal discernment, please contact Linda Messer or Connie Littlefield.

CareGiver Self Care Support Group

The next sessions will be on April 4 and 18 from 9:30-10:30 a.m. Our church offers this support group to the public and welcomes all who are caring for someone they love either at home or in a care community. Many helpful topics and resources are discussed. From time to time, professional speakers share their wisdom. All conversations are confidential within the group. Please share this information with anyone you know who might benefit from such support.

Safe Spaces Team - Up and Running

We are pleased to report that the Safe Spaces Team now has 4 members: Brian Shipley, Annie Gehring, Chuck Hodsdon and Carol Lundgren. Stay tuned for more news about CPR training, AED training and other safe spaces protocols that are being refined or developed

Hazel MacBrien Nursery School News

March was another busy month for us. We began the month talking about the weather and deciding if it was a lion or lamb weather day. We kept track using tally marks. So far, we have had more lion than lamb days. We celebrated Dr. Seuss' birthday by making Cat in the Hat hats and on March 17th we celebrated St. Patrick's Day with wearing green and eating green snacks. The little mischievous leprechaun visited our classroom and left his little green footprints on our floor. The kids went on a leprechaun hunt, we didn't find him, but he left us a golden treat! We worked on letters Dd, Zz, Kk and number 2 this month. We are looking forward to warmer weather and seeing the flowers and leaves bloom. .

Coffee Hour is Back!

Thank you to our gracious hosts, Laura Frye, Janet Twombly, and Rachel White

Spring

Oh, My Goodness! Is there anything better than the long-awaited season of Spring? OK, yea maybe there is a lengthy list of things, but for this moment Spring and all its glory is on the top of my list.

I love when the first shoots of purple crocus poke their miniature heads out of the mulch, and sometimes snow. I squeal when I spy tulips or daffodils reaching for the warm rays of the sun. I love to watch the “twitter-pated” antics of the birds. Those same birds we have been feeding all winter are now finding sustenance elsewhere, which makes me sad because there are fewer of them gathering at the feeders. But then again, I look forward to the return of migratory birds like the grossbeaks and the orioles, and one time we had an indigo bunting. This morning we saw purple finches with their raspberry colors. Not sure why they are called “purple”. Maybe the distributor of names was colorblind. We also saw three pileated woodpeckers chasing each other as they discussed who had what territory. The call-and-response drumming of another kind of woodpecker created a stereo affect from one side of the yard and back. Each one sharing their information of food, nesting sites, or mating requests in what might be considered avian texting. Spring is a time of Rebirth, Renewal, and Resurrection.

What really brings me great celebratory joy about Spring is the Spiritual rebirth that comes with what today is called, “Easter”. The hope derived from the resurrection of Christ, and the promise of Pentecost and it’s “God in Christ in you the hope of glory” (Colossians 1:27), is the foundation of Christian doctrine. As we get closer to the saddening reminder of the Last Supper and the Crucifixion of Christ, let’s also look forward to the Resurrection. Just as we patiently wait to see those groundbreaking Spring bulbs push triumphant from their earthly restraints, let us also envision the stone rolling away releasing our Savior to Glory and the promise of the Holy Spirit.

Spring Cleaning Time

It’s the best time of year to clean out those drawers and closets, etc. We are planning our next SAVERS collection for sometime in May, so keep that in mind when you are sorting out your winter items and getting ready for summer. More information will be coming in our next issue!

Easter Week Observances

Easter Week begins with our Palm Sunday Worship with the distribution of palms. We commemorate Jesus entering into Jerusalem and being greeted by the people waving palm branches. It is a reminder of the welcoming of Jesus into our hearts and of our willingness to follow him.

On Maundy Thursday, we commemorate the day on which Jesus Christ shared the Last Supper with his 12 apostles prior to his crucifixion. Jesus is believed to have washed the disciples' feet before the meal in order to demonstrate the importance of serving others. We will celebrate this Last Supper with Communion and hear selections of the passion story that led to the Shadow of the Cross. This service is at 7 p.m. is completed in the dark.

In commemoration of the crucifixion of Jesus, we are offering our sanctuary on Good Friday for a Prayer Vigil to all who wish to come and sit silently, pray, meditate, reflect. The church will be open from 12 to 3:30. We will offer several short selections if you choose to read. Spend as much time as you wish.

An Easy Way to Earn $ For our Church

I recently got an email from Amazon telling me that our church has received $448.60 in donations (total to date) from people buying through Amazon Smile and choosing our church as their charity. There is nothing to join, nothing extra to pay, and nothing to it—just an easy way to earn dollars for our general fund. Here’s how:

Go to: smile.amazon.com and search for First Congregational Church of Wakefield, NH (Sanbornville) as your charity. Then shop as usual! After checkout, a .5% of your eligible purchases will go to the church. Be sure to log into Amazon Smile every time you shop! Or just bookmark the page and go directly to it! It’s as simple as that!

News of Zimbabwe

Things are chaotic – more so than usual – in Zimbabwe at this time. A by-election (mid term election) is taking place at the end of March and any peaceful gatherings of opposition parties draw riot police, water cannons, and tear gas. The most well-known opposition leader, Nelson Chamisa, cautioned his supporters not to blame the police as they more than likely don't support the Zanu PF government but are doing their jobs as directed. Morale of police officers is at an all time low and they lack the resources to provide even basic services. When we needed to provide background checks for the people in our organization, we needed to bring our own fingerprint forms. We then found out they lacked ink for the rollers, for the rubber stamp, pens or adequate paper, definitely no printing or photocopying machines and often the offices had broken down benches, broken windows, falling apart ceilings, etc. (Anyone remember the photo of a few months ago of the Passport Office where you could see through the wooden slats?)

Zimbabwe is also feeling the brunt of 15% increases in the cost of maize meal and bread flour by and of course, fuel. Zimbabweans were paying $1.34 per liter (approx. $5.10 a gallon) and prices at this writing are $1.70 per liter (approx. $6.50). A median wage has dropped to $150 or less a month but 90% are unemployed and survive on piece jobs – any type of day labor to put food on the table or pay their child's school fees. Teachers can't afford to go to work if they live any distance from their schools because the cost of transportation eats up what little they make. Teachers use to be paid in USD at about $500 per month and now receive their salary in Zim dollars which may not even add up to $150. The Crisis in Zimbabwe Coalition has called for strikes but soldiers are threatening any government workers who fail to show up. Workers feel it is modern day slavery as the majority are earning below the food poverty line. One nurse midwife from Mt. Selinda wanted to come to the USA to work as my maid as she would earn more money and felt she would be better able to feed her kids in Zimbabwe.

When I left Zimbabwe in December, $1 USD was going for Z140. One dollar now buys Z200-220 on the streets depending upon the area in which you live. The banks offer a rate of Z130, so the street money changers are ever in demand. But that's if you have USD. Gratefully, I am able to carry our sponsorship fees and project money in the highly desired US currency so we can stay abreast of inflation.

It is with this backdrop that PKZ continues to move forward on the renovation of a building in Humani to be used as a medical clinic and work on an ECD center, continues to sponsor children and make sure they have school fees and adequate school supplies, continues to provide food security for the children at the Daisy Dube Children's Home and selected elders, continues to provide supplies delivered on the shipping container, and continues to support people in whatever way we can. It is often overwhelming when you see the increasing number of children on the streets because they don't have school fees and they don't have food to eat.

Yet this photo of Tatenda Say Sithole is a bright spot. Tatenda is a Form 1 (Grade 8) student at Gaza High School and is sporting a new uniform because of the generosity of people giving through the Alternative Gift Giving program at Christmas.

His mother Nancy is a single mother of four who attends the UCCZ church in Gaza and works extraordinarily hard, sometimes cleaning homes but more likely toiling in the fields day after day to earn a dollar or two. FCCW continues to demonstrate love for unknown others in Zimbabwe. God bless you and your generosity.

Reflecting on the Past

Titia Bozuwa, Sage

(The video of this talk can be found on our website homepage—www.fccwakefieldnh.org)

Our Moderator asked me to help answer a question our congregation wants to ask itself: “Where are we going from here? In preparation for the Synergy Meeting, the committee thought it might be helpful to reflect on our past before moving forward, especially in regard to who we are as an organization and what we intend to achieve with it.

My association with this church started in 1958, when my husband opened a medical practice across the street. The church had just been rebuilt after the big fire. I have to admit that I didn't find this a very exciting church, but that had more to do with my being only 26 years old at the time...while most congregants were or looked over, at least, 55.

As an organization the church was steered principally by the Paul family, which is well illustrated by the fact that Sam Paul was moderator for 43 years! His lovely wife Julia became the first female deacon in 1966. The governing structure at that time was uncomplicated and traditional; the budget was small, the outlook very frugal. The purpose was simply to have Sunday morning services. The Parish Helpers took care of the social and socializing aspects.

From my perspective, the church came to life in the sixties with the arrival of our first female minister, Esther Vodola, who, among other things, strengthened the Sunday School, which had led a rather anemic life; and she livened up Bible Study for adults.

Very important change came in the eighties. Better roads connected our Seven Lakes to urban areas and younger people decided it was worth the commute to settle here. It was at this time that young mothers like Margie Galabrun, Janice Stanley, Jo Szirbik, Cathy Koukal, Connie Littlefield and others moved their families to the Wakefield area and found our church. This demographic shift caused a significant generational change, and it called for a vigorous new ministry. Rick and Jennifer Russell personified that change. Fresh out of seminary, they immediately set out to bring Wakefield into the mindset of the sixties, in which they had come of age, but which had fairly bypassed our traditionally rooted township. The church flourished. The Russells set out to transform the leadership structure into a more dynamic and diversified one. The by-laws were changed to allow for a broader participation in decision making, which had been dominated by a small set of leaders. Rick and Jennifer stoked the fires of compassion, and confronted us with choices on how to LIVE our faith. Not surprisingly then, it was during their tenure that our connections were forged with Zimbabwe. They also introduced the idea of giving shelter to refugees from Cambodia. And they inspired the wonderful Betty Crowe to donate her time as secretary, which in turn resulted in the permanent establishment of an Assistant Administrator's office.

During the tenure of Rev. George Harvey and John Tamilio, a distant member of the Paul family bestowed a considerable legacy on the church. Under their leadership this unexpected gift resulted in the addition to our building, which greatly extended its usefulness. It was hoped that the improved facility would attract young families and increase Sunday school attendance, but that did not happen in any significant numbers. However, it was during this period that we became an Open and Affirmed Church.

And then came Rev. Mary James. Now we have landed in the twenty-first century. Like the Russells, Mary infused the congregation with enthusiasm and compassion, which in turn resulted in meaningful outreach to the community beyond our doors. With the help of Jan Fairchild, a retired minister, she introduced a new leadership structure and a way of attracting members into positions on the basis of their innate gifts. New by-laws were created. Committees became ministries, decision-making was spread out over a newly formed leadership council, and decisions are made by consensus. The nominating committee was done away with.

Rev. Mary had a way of empowering the laity by encouraging it to take on tasks it had never dreamed of doing, like preaching! Our connection with Zimbabwe became very strong through Connie Littlefield and with Mary's encouragement. And Mary took the initiative to get the other clergy in town to work together.

Over the span of the 64 years I am trying to describe here, our church has not only grown in physical size. Our leadership structure expanded significantly. So did the programs we offer, like grief support and the shepherds ride program. We make use of modern technology with a printer, computer, copying machine, camera, projector. Our budget grew along with all these changes, and a significant amount of energy and time is required of the membership to meet the enlarged budget. Sadly, the one thing that has not seen commensurate growth is membership, especially not in the of 20 to 40 age group. This mirrors a contemporary phenomenon. And of course, it doesn't help that we have just gone through two years of pandemic that practically closed our doors.

Where do we go from here? That is the question we have to answer together. What is realistic for us to accomplish in these changed times?

A healthy organization brings in new blood and assures its succession. I saw that happen in the eighties. We have to hope that a new generation will step up and invigorate our purposes. It is heartening to see that that is already happening with the youth group, where Gina who went from going to Sunday school in years back to becoming a vibrant Youth Group leader!

Let me close with the prayer that we will find trust in our future through our faith and reliance on God.

Prayer for Ukraine

(Rev. Maren Tirabassi)

God of plowshare and pruning hook,
may these old words be our hope for Ukraine,
May shattering bows and swords,
mean in our time an end
to missile strikes, long-range artillery,
terror in Kyiv and Mariupol'.

We pray your tenderness to surround
those who flee, or who shelter in place,
those who grieve family or home,
troops already exhausted
in danger every minute,
and kind people of Poland and Moldova
opening borders for refugees.

We pray for guidance of nations' leaders for many will live or die
because of their decisions.

And today we especially ask your blessing on all these gifts that we send to plant a sunflower of hope in Ukraine,
for we pray in the name of Jesus
who wept for the world long time ago
and weeps right now
that we may all learn
the things that make for peace. Amen.
